Idli

Ingredients

urad powder 1 cup rice flour 1 cup idli rava 1 cup
salt to taste
pinch of rapid rise yeast water to mix

Method

Mix all the above ingredients without lumps to a thick pouring consistency. Let sit overnight.

Next morning use the batter in exactly the same way regular idli batter is used. If the batter is too thick add a little water to bring it a thick pouring consistency.

Grease the idli moulds and spoon the batter into them.

Heat water in the idli cooker. Steam cook for about 12-15 mins on high.

Take out from the fire and let cool for a while and then remove the idlis from the moulds.

Serve hot with chutney, sambar or both.

This makes about 12 idlis. It is a fantastic method as it involves no soaking and no grinding. The fermented batter may smell of yeast but once cooked there is no smell at all.

Note:

If you are using the pressure cooker, do not use the weight while making idlis.

Idli Recipes

Idli Upma

Ingredients

left over idlis - 5

onion (big) - 1

green chilli - 1

oil - 1 tsp

channa dhal - 1/2 tsp

urad dhal - 1/2 tsp

chilli powder - 1/4 tsp (if you have the dhal chilli powder normally used for idlis, that'll be preferable, that can be used upto 1 tsp)

Method

Break idlis into crumbs using hand.

If you're using the Dhal powder mix that with a tsp of oil with the idli crumbs

Chop onion and chilli into small pieces

Heat oil and add the dhals. Fry till they turn golden in color

Add onion and chilli and saute.

Add idli crumbs. If you're using ordinary chilli powder, add it now and mix gently for a few seconds.

Serve hot with chutney. It'll taste really great.

Spicy Powder For Dosas/Idlis

Ingredients

1 cup urad dal.

3/4 cup channa dal (i.e. bengal gram dal.)

1/2 cup white yellow (gingelly seeds) (if not available black yellu (til) can be put)

2 cups red chillies

3 or 4 small pieces of asafoetida or 1/2 teaspoon asafoetida powder.

salt according to the amount and taste.

any cooking oil 1 tablespoon.

Method

In a plain kadai, add a drop of oil, and fry urad dal, channa dal, separately till golden colour and emanates good smell. Keep separately.

Pour some more drops of oil and fry asafoetida pieces and keep aside.

Pour few drops of oil and fry red chillies in low flame till crisp.

Dry roast in the kadai, the gingelly seeds or yellu (til) till you can hear the continuous spluttering sound.

Add either rock salt or powdered salt and little by little all the ingredients and dry powder it in a mixie/blender, not too fine but slightly coarse for a crunchy taste.

Store in a clean and dry container.

Before serving, add a few drops of oil to powder and spread it lavishly over the dosas or idlis.

Bet you'll love this delicacy.

Rice Idli

Ingredients

3 cups parboiled rice (washed and soaked overnight)

1 cup urad dal (washed and soaked overnight)

1/2 tsp. soda bicarb

salt to taste

Method

Having soaked both rice and dal separately, wash well with plenty of water.

Grind dal to a very fine paste.

Grind rice till fine grains are left (like very fine semolina).

Mix both rice and dal together after grinding.

Add soda bicarb and salt and beat well.

Add a little water if necessary.

The batter should be fairly thick.

Cover and keep aside for 7-8 hours, undisturbed.

To make idlies, do not beat the batter again.

Spoon batter onto an idli stand.

Heat water in idli cooker, and place stand in.

Steam for 5-7 minutes.

Insert a clean matchstick (back end) or a skewer.

The skewer should come out clean if the idlis are done.

Sooji-Vermicelli Idli

Ingredients

1 cup rava
1 cup semiya (vermicelli)
2 cups of slightly sour curds.
1 inch ginger piece.
2 or 3 green chillies.
curry leaves to taste.
1/2 spoon mustard seeds
2 tablespoons of refined oil.
1/2 spoon urad dhal
a pinch of asafoetida
salt to taste

Method

Keep the kadai on the stove and pour the oil in it.

When heated, put in the mustard and allow to splutter.

Then put in the urad dhal and asafoetida and then put in the chopped green chillies and thin slices of ginger.

When it starts to become a light brown, now add the rava and the semiya and fry to a light brown colour.

Now bring it down from the stove, add the salt and mix thoroughly.

Next, churn the curds to a thick consistency and then pour it into the fried mass.

Immediately put it into the idli stand and steam for exactly 5 minutes. (without weight) your rava semiya is now ready to eat with green hot chutney as a side dish.

Idli Recipes

Instant Rava Idli

Ingredients

1 catori semolina (rava)
1 catori sour curds
1/4 tsp soda
4 green chillies,
1/4 inch ginger,
4 curry leaves (grind to a fine paste) coriander leaves - 2 tsps (chopped finely) 1 flat tsp salt

Method

Dry roast the rava till it is slightly brown. Allow it to cool.

Heat one and a half teaspoons oil.

To it add Mustard seeds, hing, few curry leaves, half teaspoon urad dal and few pieces of cashewnuts broken into small pieces.

After the oil cools rub it with the rava properly.

Then add rest of the ingredients but soda should be added last.

Pre heat the cooker with water.

Then add the soda at the last moment i.e. a minute before putting it in the cooker which has been pre heated.

The consistency for the idlis should be of dropping consistency.

The quantity of curds should not be increased.

If you feel the batter is thick then add a little water to reach the desired consistency.

Put it in the idli mould and steam it for seven minutes

Idli Recipes

Jackfruit Sweet Idli

Ingredients

deseeded jackfruit 12 pieces rawa 1 cup coconut scrapings 1 cup jaggery- 3/4 cup ghee 2 tsp
cashewnut 10

Method

Grind the deseeded jackfruit, coconut scrapings and jaggery in mixer grinder and make it into a smooth pulp and remove it to a bowl.

Add the rawa to the pulp and make a smooth dough (water or milk need not be added as the pulp itself contains enough water for preparing the dough). If the dough becomes very thin add little more rawa to bring it to the required consistency.

Fry the cashewnuts in ghee and add it to the dough.

Grease the idli mould and spoon the dough in it. Now steam it as you steam the idli for five minutes. When it is ready, you get a good aroma of the jackfruit.

Let it cool for a minute and then remove it from the mould to the serving plate.

Spoon melted ghee on it while serving.

Dhal Idli

Ingredients

moong dhal 1 cup

urad dhal 1 cup

rice 2 table spoons (can be avoided on fasting days)

For Seasoning:

mustard

gram dhal

1 inch piece ginger cut into fine pieces

curry leaves

green chillies (optional)

jeera

hing

cashew nuts

Method

Soak for atleast half an hour to 45 minutes. Grind coarsely and leave to ferment for atleast 6 hrs. (It's enough if it's fermented lightly)

Season with all the above ingredients in little hot ghee. Add finely cut coriander leave and proceed as normal idli making.

For Chutney:

Grind equal quantities of tomato and coriander with green chilies. Season with mustard and hing. Pour the ground paste and allow it to boil till it is semi solid. This chutney goes well with the above idli

Variations:

To the batter you can add grated carrot, shelled peas, corn can also add frozen vegetables.

salt 1/2 - 3/4 th teaspoon or according to taste hing powder a pinch.

Method

Chop cabbage, green chilli, ginger, and coriander leaves.

Grate the carrot.

Heat oil in a pan, add mustard, urad dal and hing-when mustard splutters, add the green chilli, ginger, gram dal, cabbage, carrot, carrot, and peas. Fry well, add the rava and roast till the rava is pinkish in colour. Let it cool.

Mix in the beaten curds, water, salt, soda, coconut and the coriander leaves. Let it be of dropping consistency. Pour into greased idli moulds and steam for 10-12 minutes.

Serve hot with Onion Chutney.

Stuffed Idlis

Ingredients

left over idli mix potatoes onions cashews
green chillies
shelled peas coriander leaves hing powder

Method

Boil potatoes and peel them

Cut onions thin/small fry with chopped green chillies, cashews, curry leaves, turmeric powder and hing powder.

Add tomatoes, shelled peas and fry until done.

Add boiled, peeled, smashed potatoes and mix well with little bit of sugar for taste and salt.

Finally add finely chopped coriander leaves and remove from the fire.

Grease the idli stand and put a small spoon of idli batter.

Place one table spoon full of aloo mix in a flat spoon.

Pour a spoon full of idli batter on top of the aloo masala and cover the stuffing.

Allow it to steam as usual idlis.

Fluffy Idlis

Ingredients

white urad dal: 2 measures ground rice or rice flour: 4 measures yeast: 1/2 tsp.
cooked rice: 2 tbsp.

Method

Soak the urad dal in plenty of water for about an hour.

Grind it with the yeast and cooked rice till nice and frothy. I make the final volume of this ground dal 1 pint for every 2 oz of the dry dal.

Pour this into a basin and blend in the ground rice. Cover with cling film and leave to ferment overnight.

Pour the batter into idli moulds and steam for 15-20 minutes and you'll have hot fluffy idlis to be enjoyed with coconut chutney!

PS:

The same recipe can be adapted for making dosa batter.

You need to increase the amount of ground rice to 6 measures for every 2 measures of dry dal.

Chilled Curd Idlis

Ingredients

chilled curds 4 cups;
idlis 24;
carrots 1 cup;
oil 1 1/2 tablespoon; coriander leaves 1 tablespoon;
mustard 1/4th teaspoon;
salt 1/2 teaspoon;
hing powder pinch;
chopped green chillies 4.

Method

Make idlis as usual way. Cool them. Beat curd adding a cup of water, add salt to it. If preferred 1/2 teaspoon of sugar.

Grate carrots and chop coriander leaves.

Heat 1/2 tabs oil, add mustard. When mustard splutters add hing, pour on to the curds. Keep half the curds mixture aside.

Soak the idlis in the other half of the curd mixture and keep in the fridge to chill well.

To serve: -

Fry chillies in the remaining oil. Place the soaked idlis in an attractive platter, cover them with the remaining curd mixture- scatter the fried chillies over them, and decorate with grated carrots and coriander leaves.

Idli Recipes

Semiya Idlis

Ingredients

2 cups semiya (can substitute angel hair pasta -- broken into one inch pieces.)

3/4 cup rava

2 tbsp ghee

curd - enough for batter (homemade curd is preferable. slightly fermented curd is even better.)

2 - 3 green chillies (add more if you want to) oil for seasoning and to grease idli mould.

salt to taste.

asafoetida (hing) - a pinch.

seasoning - mustard seeds, one red chilly, urad dal, chana dal, curry leaves and some pieces of cashewnuts.

Method

Heat one tbsp ghee in a pan and roast the rava till it is pink and gives out a good aroma. Take off the heat. Transfer onto another plate.

Heat the other tbsp ghee and fry the semiya or small pieces of pasta till it turns pinkish-red. Careful that it does not burn. Take off the heat.

Mix the roasted rava and semiya / pasta in the curd. Add cut green chillies, asafoetida and salt. Add the seasoning, stir well and keep aside for a few minutes -- 10 to 15 minutes will do. If the batter becomes too thick, you can add some water or the whey from the curd.

Grease idli mould and pour the batter. Steam as you would rice idlis -- for about 15 minutes.

Serve hot with Coconut Chutney.
